RAINS RELIEVE SERIOUS DROUGHT AT CHIHUAHUA

Tarahumara Indians, on Verge of Starvation, Must Have Help From the Federal Government.

Chihuahua, Mexico, July 1.—Reports from over the entire state are to the effect that good rains have been general during the past 10 days. All through the central valley region along the line of the Mexican National railways the rainy season has started out well and the stockmen and farmers are highly encouraged. The rains in the Sierra Madre regions have been quite heavy already breaking the long drought which had seriously hampered mining operations during the past few months. The thousands of Tarahumara Indians in the Sierras have been on the verge of starvation for several months owing to the failure of their crops last year. It is quite a serious question whether they can procure seed corn for planting this season unless the state government helps them.

ROSSELL IS NOW WITHOUT ANY BOOZE

All Saloons Closed—Teachers to Meet at Hagerman Next Year.

Roswell, N. M., July 5.—For the first time in its existence Roswell is without saloons, and the experience is a novel one. All licenses for dram shops expired Thursday night and the six saloons which have been paying the city $12,000 for four years closed.

One saloon owner issued a large number of invitations, typewritten on the backs of "Budweiser" lager beer labels, as follows: "You are requested to be present at the Palace bar on June 30th, 1919, from 8 p. m. to 12. Banquet and commencement exercises." By a vote of 37 to 20 the teachers attending the Chavez County Teachers' Institute here for two weeks past, decided to hold next year's session at the town of Hagerman, 24 miles southeast of Roswell.

James W. Mullens and Roy Parsons, who have been collecting data for a new directory, state that Roswell has 6517 inhabitants.

Sheep men have found this a hard year, the drought making it difficult to save the lamb crop, but one man is said to have saved 68 percent, which seems a good record under the conditions.
